

PREFACE

The May 1972 Report of Registration, prepared under authority of Section 6460 of the California Elections Code, shows voter registration as of April 13, 1972, the closing date for registration for the June 6, 1972 primary election.

Congressional and state legislative district voter registration information in this Report is for the districts authorized by order of the California Supreme Court on January 18, 1972.

A brief analytical section has been included in this Report to provide a more complete view of the state's registration patterns.

May 1972

EDMUND G. BROWN JR.
Secretary of State

There are 9,105,287 Californians registered to vote in the June 6, 1972 primary. This figure represents the highest number of registered voters in the state's history. Table I shows the number and percent of voters in each of the qualified political parties or other voter categories as of April 13, 1972, the close of registration for the 1972 primary election.

Table I
CURRENT STATEWIDE REGISTRATION

	Registered voters	Percent*
American Independent.....	45,314	.5
Democratic.....	5,134,178	56.4
Peace and Freedom.....	58,880	.6
Republican.....	3,398,716	37.3
Declined-to-state.....	436,702	4.8
Miscellaneous.....	31,497	.3
Total.....	9,105,287

Figure I and Figure II (Pages 4 and 5) report the same information for April 1972 and for each of the preceding primary elections starting with 1962.

Democratic registration for this year's primary is .4 percent higher than the party's 55.9 percent average for primary elections over the previous eleven years. However, Democratic registration is below the highpoint for this period—57.1 percent—reached in 1966. Republican registration—37.3 percent—is at its lowest point for a primary election in the last eleven years. The Republican figure is 2.4 percent lower than the party's 39.7 percent average for this period. Nevertheless, from 1962 to 1972 both Democratic and Republican registration percentages have moved in the relatively narrow range of from 2.5 to 3.5 percent.

The greatest percentage increase for any voter category over the past decade has occurred among those voters who do not affiliate with any political party. This category increased by 146 percent—258,984 registrants—since the 1968 primary election.

Voters affiliated with smaller parties or who have registered as "declined-to-state" now represent 6.2 percent of the electorate. In January of this year these voters were 5.9 percent of the electorate.

Table II (Page 7) shows the percentage growth in registration by county in the period between the January Report of Registration and the close of registration for the June primary.

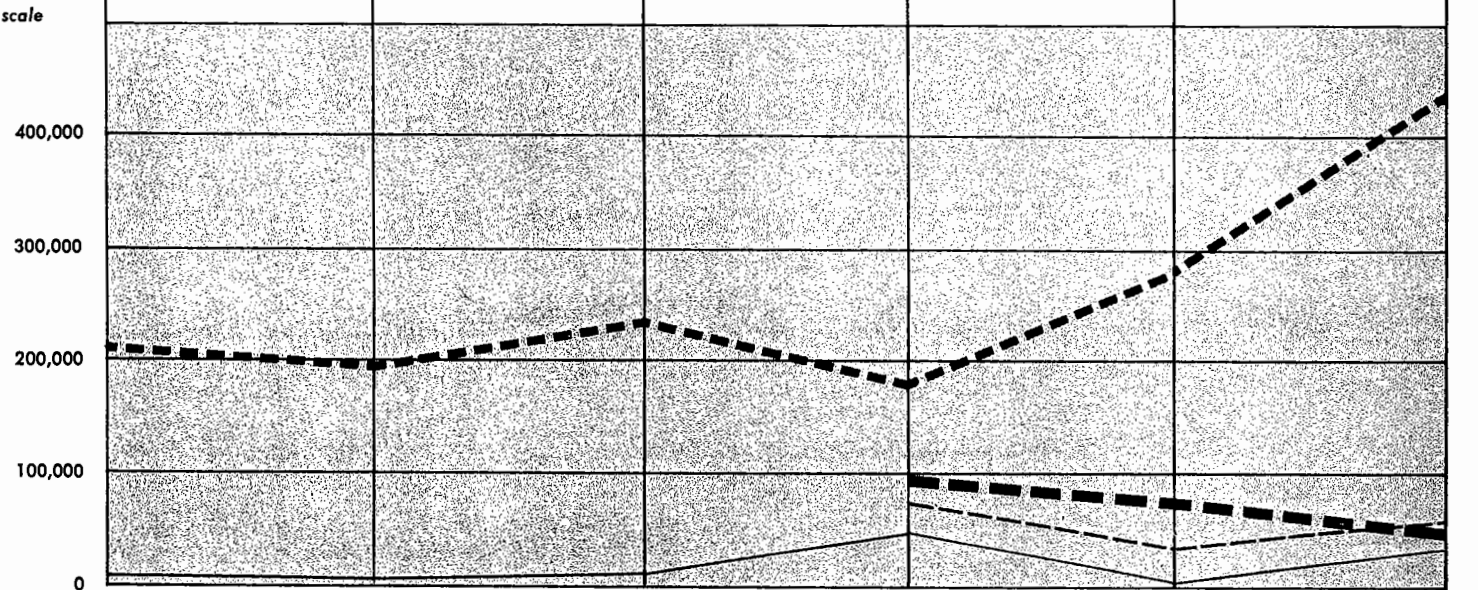

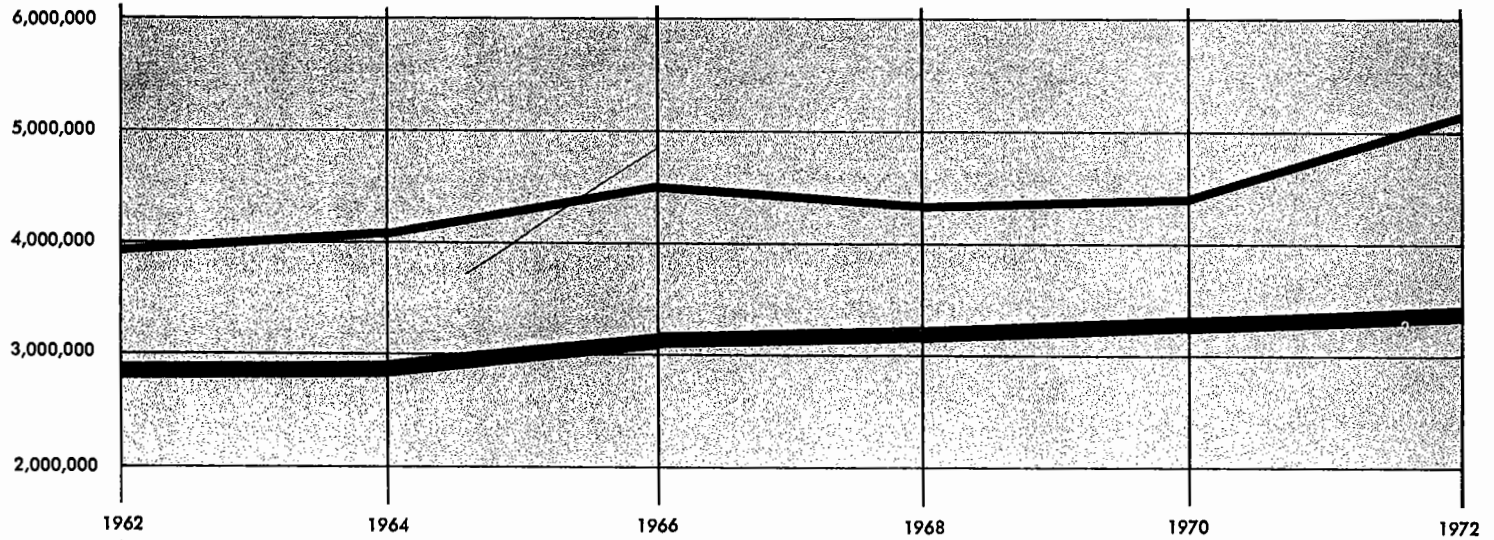

Table III (Page 7) compares the percentage growth between January and April 1972 with the same period in 1964 and 1968. Table III indicates that this year's new registration record is not exceptional in light of the pattern established in the two previous presidential years. Rather, the growth in registration to 9.1 million voters appears to be the result of a steady climb in registration that began after the voting rolls were purged of registrants failing to vote in the November 1970 general election. Figure III (Page 6) reproduced from the January 1972 Report of Registration illustrates that registration drops off sharply following the January purge in post-gubernatorial election years. Registration then builds in a steady fashion through the presidential year continuing until a new high point is reached prior to the gubernatorial election. Higher voter interest in the presidential election contest is the most probable cause of this two year cycle of increasing voter registration.

Although registration in California has reached a new high, there are 4.84 million Californians who are old enough to vote but who are not now registered. Thus many of the state's citizens
